In every child
who is born,

under no matter
what circumstances,
and of no matter
what parents,

the potentiality of the human race
is born again;

and in him, too . . .
our terrific responsibility
towards human life,

towards the utmost idea
of goodness,

of the horror
of error,

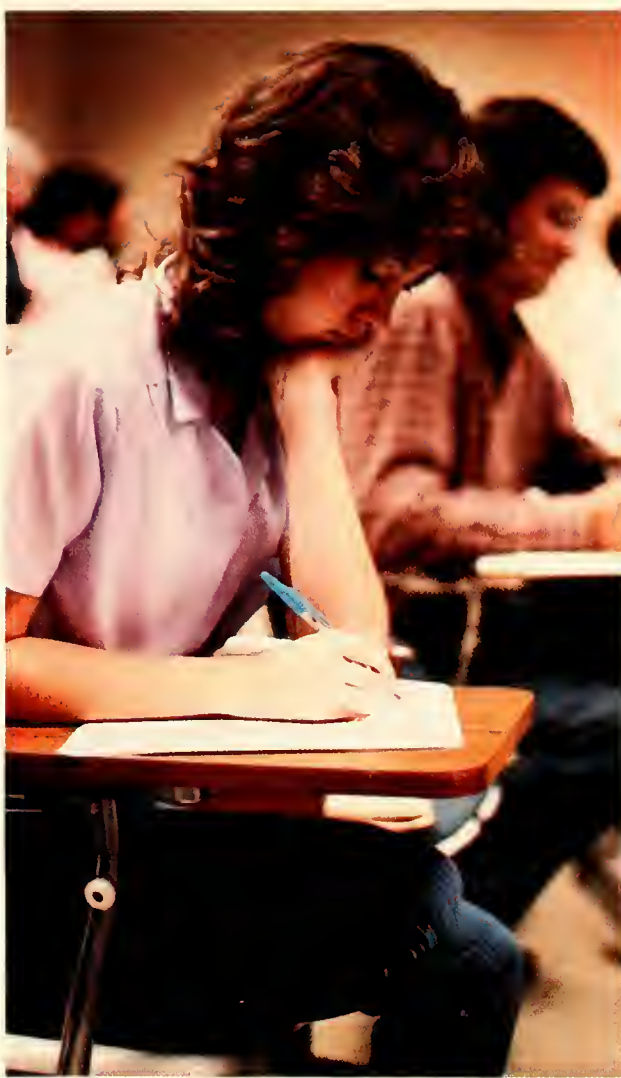

and of God.

Chili & Gumbo Cookoff

"Where's the party this weekend?" No matter how rough the week has been, say the word and we'll be together to share gripes and laughter, introduce new freshmen to the LSUMC family, or just relish a break from Micro notes. Take this case: What do you get when you take a cold January weekend, two classes waiting on GSL checks, and lots of big appetites? The First Annual Frosh/Soph Chili & Gumbo Cookoff, that's what. We discovered that not only were our lab partners really chefs extraordinaire, but that the best chili in Texas and the best friends anywhere are at LSUMC.

Football

The fall quarter saw heavy competition from LSUMC teams. Grossbusters achieved a perfect no-win season, while Survivors slipped by with a 1-5 mark. The Sophomore Blitz and the Freshman C teams made the playoffs in a good show of talent, and Scutthroats won the playoffs by edging out the Mad Choppers. The Barr Bodies had an aggressive season, reaching the championships before suffering a heartbreaking loss by a safety.

Volleyball

LSUMC dominated the volleyball courts in the fall semester with several teams in competition. The Survivors and Hydrocoeles unwillingly succumbed to their opponents, but not without the valiant effort of Charles Lawler, who gave his ankle for naught. Buckwheat's Revenge finished third in men's competition, stopped only by the ROTC machine. Dr. Kennedy's "Odds and Ends" fought valiantly in the CoRec finals but saw a close victory elude them. The Freshmen Women made LSUMC news with a stellar performance in the finals, overwhelming their ROTC opponents, who failed to show.

Water Polo

Several LSUMC water polo teams braved the waters of LSU-S for heavy competition. The Buboos made a valiant effort, while the Seamen sank ROTC with an easy 94-7 victory in the first game of the playoffs. The finals saw Cercariae dethroning the defending champions, the Seamen, thanks to Lisa Carey, Lisa Jones, and the dynamic coaching of Kevin Smith.

Basketball

In men's competition, the Survivors didn't. Sudden Impact boasted a 3-2 record, and Buckheat's Revenge had a fine no-loss record thwarted only by ROTC in the finals. The Happy Hookers boasted of no wins but did see Kelly "Hulk" Daigre wrestle her opponents to the floor for a good show. We'll see you on the courts NEXT year, ROTC — go ahead, make my day!

Softball

The one thing that spring means to everyone is SOFTBALL! This year the sophomore men's Bayou Blasters beat out the always tough junior team, the Shrimps, to win the medical school championships; both teams were invited to the LICRSA State Softball Tournament. The women's Bililights blinded the LSUS team Physical Phis 24 to 6 and ended up first overall, and in the Co-Rec division, the Super Bloopers bounded to a surprising 2nd place ... and these were just a few of the many fine teams!

Golf

The 84-85 scramble tour was composed of two fine tournaments, neither of which were rained out (You may find that hard to believe, but . . .). In spite of a tight test schedule, participation in the fall tournament was good, and Warren "Lucky" Green, with teammates Kevin and Bob Hatchett and Bruce Rayburn finished first with a sizzling 6 under par on the challenging Huntington Park course. The spring tournament saw the team of Bankston, Nelson, Green (again), and Wilder emerge victorious.

Choir

Yes, LSUMC does have a flair for the arts. Disguised as ordinary medical students, faculty members, housestaff, nurses, and other students and employees are 45 budding vocal talents. Directed by Dr. Warren Grafton, this unique gathering of performers presented two cantatas during the 1984-85 school year, accompanied by Jeff Till. Even Unto Bethlehem filled the auditorium with the Christmas spirit in the winter quarter, while an Easter cantata entitled Day of Resurrection was the choir's spring offering. We applaud this conscious effort to preserve and foster an interest in the arts on our campus.

Mock Trial

The Second Annual Mock Trial, Carpi v Thompson and Hasselbach was held February 6, 1985. It was based on an actual lawsuit that involved allegations of malpractice against an internist and neurologist. Judge Fred Sexton of the Louisiana Court of Appeal presided, and members of the Departments of Neurology, Medicine, and Pathology testified in the roles of defendants and expert witnesses. The jury, which consisted of the second-year medical students, found one of the defendants liable for the injuries suffered by the plaintiff.

Snow!!

"IT'S SNOWING OUT THERE!" was a familiar cry the 1st weekend in February as four inches of the white stuff cancelled freshmen midterms, immobilized Shreveport, and brought out the little kid in all of us. Snowball fights, snowmen, an igloo or two, and lots of sledding pulled us outdoors to play. Sure, the cars stalled and a couple of the Cajuns among us worried about frostbite, but we seized the opportunity to leave the books and just be young again, and you know something? It was wonderful - maybe we'll have eight inches next year.

Drug Fair

March 19th found upperclassmen (and others) pouring over drug literature and free samples in the Psychiatry Ballroom. Representatives from the companies were in attendance to answer questions and introduce their products. Sophomores' used their newly acquired pharmacological "wisdom", while juniors and seniors turned towards the idea that yes, we really might be prescribing these to our own patients someday soon.

Tiger Trot

The Annual Spring Tiger Trot was held April 27 on the Clyde Fant Parkway, near the Red River. Over 100 runners composed of students, faculty, families, and friends participated in the Fun Run. Many came to race, others came just to finish. Unfavorable weather conditions threatened, but the weather held up long enough for the 1 mile, 5K, and 10K races to be run. Trophies were awarded to the top finishers, but all the participants received a scrub shirt for entering. After the Fun Run, everyone headed downtown for the Tiger Trot Party.

Study Time

"I think, therefore I am" ... spending hours and hours of preclinical years tucked away with the Textbook of Medicine in a corner of the library, peering anxiously at what Dr. DeSha extols as a perfect slide of the cochlea, and reducing the totality of anatomy to a melodic jingle of mnemonics. Armed with highlighters, I struggle to grasp the essence of renal volume regulation and the intricacies of neurological diagnosis. Then, lest I grow old and weary before my time, I turn my attention to the analysis of REM sleep, as visions of carbohydrate metabolism dance in my head.

Breaks!!

In ten minutes, we can hop in the elevator, eat breakfast, and make it back in time for neuroanatomy . . . barely. Give us fifteen minutes, and we'll roam the halls until Dr. Fleming's lecture begins. Half an hour later, and there's serious business around that ground floor pool table and a reputation at stake at the ping pong table. Oh, but we don't all take our playing so seriously; some of us hang around upstairs, catching up on biochem reviewing or some precious sleep. There aren't enough hours in the day . . .

TGIF's

Now, let me see. Is that "Thank God It's Friday" or "Thank God It's Free"? Either way, tell us there's a party on with free food, beer, and movies, and we'll be there. Yes, the freshmen tear themselves away from Woodbourne, and the juniors run in for a couple slices of pizza and a few minutes of respite. Husbands, wives, boyfriends, girlfriends, kids - they're all there, enjoying an all-too-infrequent "night out". See ya next Friday night at the Psych Ballroom!

Sophomore Pool Party

And the champagne flowed, and many were tanned,
And they asked themselves, who has the sexiest legs?
And the answer was Howard Stelly.
And they asked themselves, who is the most talented
Monopoly player?
And the answer was Mimi Close.
And they asked themselves, who had a great time?
And they all said, "DUMB QUESTION."

Away From School

What do we do when the exams are over? Some rugged types can be found in duck blinds, and some of us discover the hobo's life. We run away to Arkansas, Baton Rouge, or Bunkie. We sleep until noon, or we wake at sunrise for tennis. Some hit the high seas (Cross Lake) for the thrill of the wind and waves. Many rediscover what it means to be spouse, child, and friend.

Sophomore Crawfish Party

A sunny afternoon in the park with all the crawfish you can eat, beer, crawfish, family, crawfish, good friends, crawfish, a little softball, crawfish, and even a little golf (?!); what could be better? You guessed it . . . Have some more crawfish!

P.T.'s Are People Too

SUBJECTIVE:

P.T. is an adult age male or female whose interests include patient rehabilitation, injury prevention through patient education and the therapeutic use of physical agents. Complains of severe burn-out. P.T. states he/she enjoys school, but also enjoys extra curricular activities in spare time.

OBJECTIVE:

Objective findings include: F minus muscle grade in the strong hip flexor, the iliopsoas; limitation of free time; loss of modesty; unable to follow simple directions to going away parties; and confusion about points lost for misspelled words on tests.

ASSESSMENT:

This type of student has a great deal of potential to become an excellent Physical Therapist. The severe burn-out the P.T. is experiencing will hopefully resolve itself through the summer and during full time affiliations.

PLAN:

STG: Instruct P.T. on using spare time to its fullest potential. Decrease number of days off at Christmas break.

LTG: Graduate after completion of 2 ½ year program (check with catalog for exact date).

Casino Party

Gambling? At a hotel? In Louisiana? In Shreveport? Unbelievable!!

Yes, it was. October, 1984 saw the transformation of classmates, friends, faculty, and staff into wild-eyed, hi-stakes gamblers. Music was provided by The Late Show well into the next morning. Millions of dollars were won and lost, dozens of prizes were given away, and a new standard was set for Casino Parties to come.

Family Day

Mom! Dad! Great to see you! Glad you could be here to meet the pros, look at pathology specimens, and tour Comp Care. Sorry about all the rain, but the old cafeteria was just fine for a good, down-home meal of red beans and rice. LSUMC was happy to share a few glimpses of medical student life with you and organize so many little family reunions with students and their families. After all, it's easier to work long hours or plow through Woodbourne when you know you're loved!

Christmas Party

18 Dec. 1984
Le Bossier Hotel
Bossier City, La.
Picture if you will Pirahna (from Mobile, Alabama) stepping on stage in front of a sight sure to strike terror in the hearts of moms worldwide. There they were, hundreds of students whipped into a frenzy by the deadly combination of free time and live music . . .

Cadaver Ball

The Cadaver Ball originates from the process of studying anatomy too much. It inserts upon the joy of a spring with only physiology. The bulk of the Cadaver Ball rests deep to the Central Station Restaurant, lateral to downtown Shreveport. Innervation is provided by A-Train. The blood supply arrives via the Budweiser profundus artery.

Crawfish Boil

Laissez les bons temps rouler! The 1985 LSUMC Crawfish Boil began on a sunny, breezy afternoon at Champion Lake. Students, faculty members, spouses and children gathered for volleyball, frisbee throwing, a little two-stepping to the sounds of Reel Music Systems and D. J. Bailey, and for a few brave souls, some serious water-skiing. Oh, and let's not forget the REAL reason we were there — the FOOD. When the afternoon was over, 4000 pounds of crawfish, 400 pounds of potatoes, 12 cases of corn, 18,000 fluid ounces of soft drinks, and 16 kegs of beer had been consumed. Mais, it was an afternoon to make a North Louisiana Cajun proud!

Match Day

The institutionalized craps game known as Match Day took place on March 13, 1985, when participating seniors received their matches. A far cry from the ordinary concept of a job search, Match Day better resembles a huge birthday party where all the celebrants receive, one-by-one, gifts from a long-lost relative of unknown taste. The traditional post-Match party was held at Humpfrees with entertainment provided by the Kingpins.

Graduation

Yesterday's premedical grinds, tomorrow's heroic healers. They suffer from sleep deprivation, cafeteria-induced cholesterol levels, and a tendency to twitch uncontrollably, but they now all have names ending in "M. D."

Four years in Sing-Sing. The first two years — gross minutiae, porphyrias (or, how to diagnose a werewolf), cardiological vector analyses and other mathematical improbabilities. Myasthenia gravis making an appearance in virtually every course. The Clinical years — learning to sleep fully dressed in strange barren rooms and coping with patients' shocking ignorance of how bodies work. Feigning comprehension and self-confidence.

So now you're à Doctor.

Freshmen

We began our medical education on August 27, 1984, as one hundred and three strangers with uncertain smiles, wondering in awe and naivety as Joe Penny and His Bullwhip introduced our preclinical years. The months that followed were a collage of midnight hours in anatomy lab, anxious speculations over Z-scores, afternoons on the softball field, and neuroanatomy case studies. Now, as the mornings of physiology draw to a close, we are the Class of 1988 — friends who have shared fears and aspirations, lunch and histology notes, friends who share the growing pains of evolution from students to physician.

Voices from the Eighth - A Concise Look at the First Year:

"Fred! Fred! Fred!" (Loud applause, as house lights dim)

"Tell him, class." - Dr. Kennedy, after the first of Phantom Askew's questions

"I am the uterus." - 8:00 a.m. lecture, Dr. Leung

What if you were an ER physician, Ron?

"Somebody is having a birthday today" - Susan B.

"PLEASE pay for last month's notes." - Joe "QWIK COPI" Orsulak

Whaddya mean, there's no handout in Radiology?

"OHMIGAWD!" - Leslie "I'm Not a Valley Girl" Blake, in response to "You look mahhvelous" intoned by Tom "I'm NOT HOSTILE" Montgomery

"Joke! Joke!" - the Royal Order of the Back Row

"No, you CAN'T watch our Jane Fonda workout!" - Mitra and Nancy

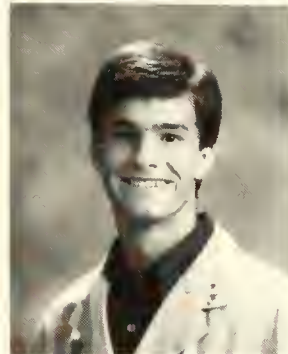

"Look, I'm in Florida, and I'll be back when I can." - David Sanusi

Sophomores

Ours was a year of awakening. In November, we stretched the limits of short term memory with more trivia than biochem and biometry combined and gamely swam to the surface through a sea of micro notes. February buried us in a flurry of exams, a veritable blizzard of inquisition. Springtime found us in Medicine class, weighted by the heady realization that next year's multiple choice would present as a real, live patient. Laying out to catch the rays meant a quick nap before returning to check the chart on your H & P writeup; a night off began at 10:00 p.m. Again and again, whether in the rhythmicity of autumn exams or the first fetal heartbeats heard in spring, we heard the melody, and it was unmistakable — the new year was quietly teaching us to leave the familiarity of the classroom, to become doctors.

"Vining!! Vining!!-crime wave, get the lights Vining!"

"Buuutch!"

"Aw-Francis-man- Dats TEAHBLE"

"Yaawll, we've got two birthdays today."

"Uh, now you'll find all of this in your DeGowen and DeGowen and you really do need to commit this to memory."

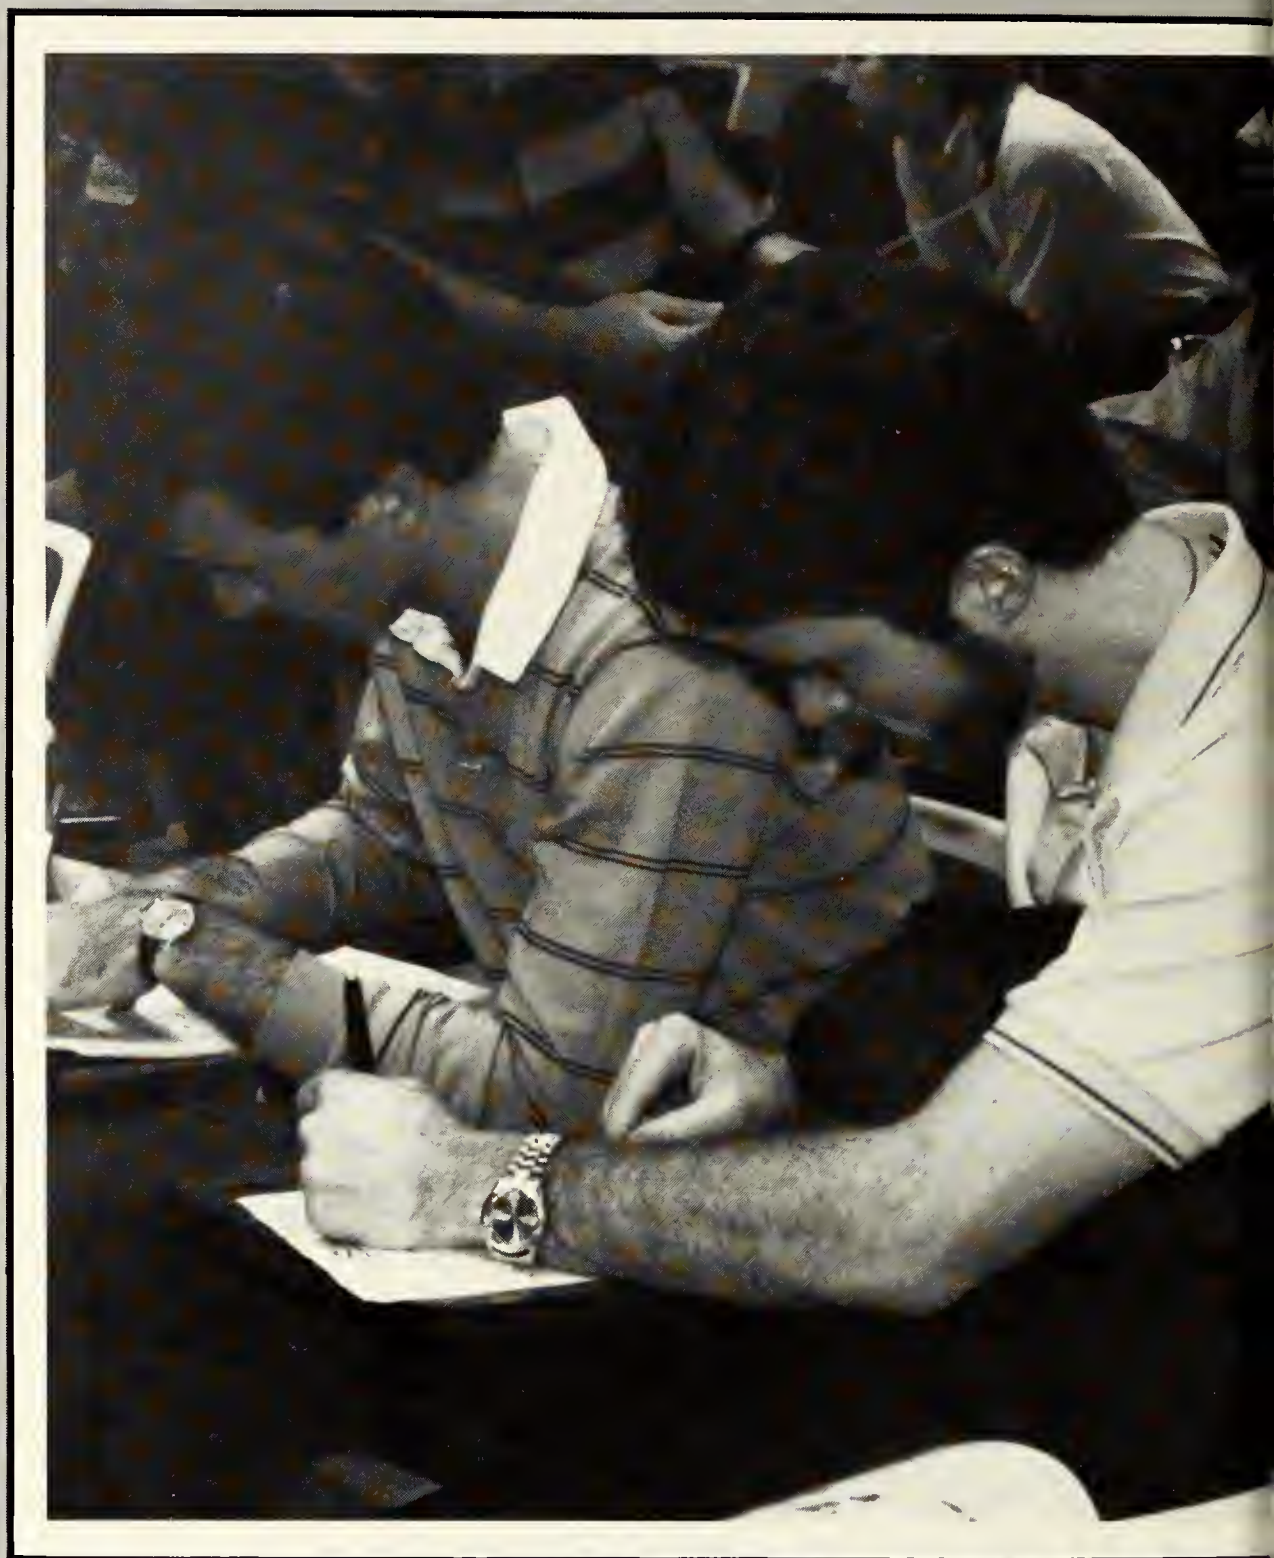

"O.K. ya'll listen-up"- "Bryan-where's my stethoscope ... scope, scope, scope ..."

"Ahhh, Dackter Dunphy, what would it take ta' git yah ta' strap that micrafone on your neck there?"

Carrll

"Hey, I'm just gonna go with the old notes"

After having survived an onslaught of charts, graphs, tables, histograms, nomograms, domeograms, kilograms, and approximately 2,010 Netter drawings, we finally are prepared to leave the lecture hall for the wards. Well-maybe!!

Juniors

We are a class of transition. Behind us are the bright white lab coats of those uninitiated in Physical Diagnosis and notebooks with the faint scent of the eighth floor. Ahead of us loom senior rotations, The Match, and yes, even graduation. So here we are, seven groups of diverse people, trudging through the sleepless waters of Medicine, the murky meanings of our psychiatry patients, and the never-ending flow of scutwork. We are in the adolescence of our education, that gangly stage when the overflowing lab coat doesn't hide furtive feelings of inadequacies, but each day brings lessons and slowly accumulating wisdom. Today, the face in the mirror is that of Student; tomorrow, it will be Doctor.

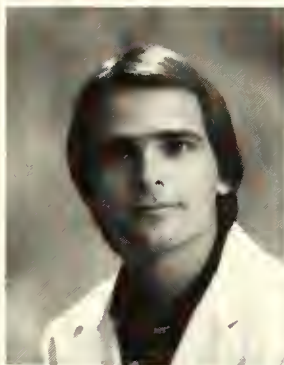

"Go 8-West, young doctor . . . then go to 5-East, then to x-ray, from there to the lab for a gram stain and then . . ." With assorted paraphernalia spilling from lab coats (average weight 12.394 pounds), we began the third illustrious year of our medical education giving guided tours for the prima gravidas through the L & D unit, reviving comatose patients with digital exams, and sending CPR Annie into V-fib. We learned to ask, "Are you going to breastfeed?" and "I know CPR — can I help?" In our lighter moments, we created the fantasy world of Medical Mall International, where drive-through CAT scans and the new video game "(Gall) Stone Busters" brought us fame and seven digit figures. We began to see things we'd read about as we rounded incessantly, to hone our skills at circumlocution when called upon to present with pearls of wisdom, and to wearily commute from VA to Comp Care. We became familiar with prostates and coffin lids, corneas and cataracts, mallet fingers and AO rods. We queried the meaning of the Cowboy Story with a self-proclaimed "killing machine", dispensed Lithium and TCA's, and met Velba the Missing Link. Quite simply, we drew one elusive step closer to being M. D. 's.

Seniors

Four years have passed since the first humble morning in anatomy lab, four years since those first I. D. pictures captured youth and determination in our eyes. Now, our eyes tell the stories of teachers who have shaped our transition from students to physicians: professors and attendings, certainly — but then too the infant held in our arms as he breathed his first of life, the friends and families who insisted that the children within us revel in warm April mornings, and the elderly patient who taught us that healing holds more meaning than diagnosis and prescription. The lessons have been long and sometimes lonely, but the wisdom we have found is sweet. The art of healing is now ours, and we begin tomorrow as physicians.

School Of Allied Health

The School of Allied Health at Louisiana State University Medical Center in Shreveport consists of students who wish to become part of a medical team of professionals offering various services and skills to the total patient care. Fields include Cardiopulmonary Science, Communication Disorders, Medical Technology, and Physical Therapy.

In thier first summer semester at LSUMC the students all take an anatomy class together. They then break off into their specialty groups for the rest of their education. Classes are held in the Allied Health building and clinical work is done at the LSU Hospital as well as at other hospitals and clinics throughout Shreveport and Bossier.

Students in Allied Health as individuals all have a variety of interests, but they all enjoy a good Catfish dinner and a cold stroll through a breezy walkway on a winter day!

Executive Council

The Executive Council is responsible for developing and maintaining social, athletic, educational, and service programs for LSUMC students. Social chairpersons Bryan Demarie and Francis Robichaux and their committee did an admirable job with social events such as the Casino Party, Christmas Dance, and crawfish boil. Spyrie Mays labored to prepare the new Student Union and throw TGIF soirées as well. Brent Bankston offered athletic events to students and spouses and welcomed our families to Family Day activities. Clancy Boudreaux and Ted Lenard extended the services of our weight and exercise room. Henry Hollier improved the already popular Tiger Trot, a chance to exercise, exert, and experience exhaustion en masse. Mike McCarthy and Tom Gaddis organized the successful Blood Drive and Drug Fair. In keeping with the family atmosphere of LSUMC, Bryan Demarie and Melanie Buttross assisted in the planning of Frosh/Soph Day and the Frosh/Junior Liaison.

Improved Communication among students, their leaders, and faculty members was a priority within the Council. Another issue which faced the Council was the financing of the floundering "Synapse." Administrative areas of the Council were coordinated by Barry Martin and Blaine Borders, while Connie Templet represented the students in the highly publicized residents' bill to obtain pay raises. Perhaps most significantly, the Executive Council was responsible for LSUMC's response to the assessment of the General Professional Education of the Physician (GPEP) report. Led by Robert Fortier-Bensen, students and faculty members pondered changes suggested by the GPEP report.

SYNAPSE

LSU SCHOOL OF MEDICINE IN SHREVEPORT

VOL. X NO. 3 BOX 309 SPRING 1985

Synapse

As we undergo the "growing pains" of metamorphosis from carefree students to custodians of life and acquaintances of death we are often overwhelmed. Our reward for each hurdle we jump is another, higher hurdle. So it is natural that most of us react to the undeniable pressures by eliminating all extraneous activities, like the athlete who clears the obstacle by a mere fraction of an inch. At the same time, we want to have student organizations to link us together, to add another dimension to our education. So it is with gratitude that we mention the names of all who made The SYNAPSE possible and real this year: F. Xavier Castellanos, Editor; Leslie Blake, Associate Editor and Freshman Reporter; Tom Gaddis, Sophomore Reporter; and Susan Kellerman, Junior Reporter. Special thanks to those who contributed: Brent Bankston, Carol Davis, Bobby Greenberg, Brent Nick, Blake Poleynard, Linda Rice Roberts, Cheryl Russell, Milton Slocum and Terry Winkler. And to all our readers and their representatives, the Executive Council: Thank you.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

Congratulations to everyone for surviving "Fatal February." Just hang on a few more months and then relax (a little). Eli Lilly Pharmaceutical Co. finally sent our stethoscopes -- and just in time! It seems that student Doctor Brierre was severely reprimanded for using a rolled up piece of newspaper to listen to chests on his comp care elective. When asked about this Dr. Brierre said it was true but he absolutely did not use this method when grading mureurs or determining Kentucky vs. Tennessee beat patterns. Dr. Brierre also told us that even though he didn't study path all that much he could "pretty much tell the cardiovascular status of a patient just by looking at his fingernails." AWESOME MUCH STU-UFF!!!!!! There's really not that much sophomore news as we've all been gunning it for these final exams. The list of events in the near future include FUN RUN in late March and Crawfish Boil in late April. Both of these provide a great chance to get together for a good time away from school. Also the best of all -- Easter vacation starts March 29. Good luck to everyone going to Colorado! looks like there should be plenty of snow.

FRESHMAN NEWS

The treacherous winter quarter ended climactically for freshmen with the dread neuroanatomy and histology finals, and culminated with the delightful Cadaver Ball. Just when we were all growing accustomed to acting out our favorite brain lesions for laughs or money, the courses tragically ended. But not before the solemn ritual of the annual Neuro Student Awards, presented by Dr. Beal on February 22nd. Here are some highlights: The coveted "body agnosia" award, aptly presented by Dr. Ebbison, went to Harold "Itty-Bitty" Clausen, who emblemized this lesion by his rigorous denial of his seall bodily parts. The unique "constructional apraxia" award went to artist Milton Slocum, whose frustrated "Fuzzy's" (seen in this issue) indicate a tortured attempt at expression. Staid Dr. Penny, a tie coily covering his volueinous pants, presented the cherished "emotional incontinence" award to Bobby "Teeny-Weeny" Casanova, who "perseverated" in demonstrating a remarkable lack of control, taste, and drive. The avant-garde "Kluver-Bucy" award was presented to Susan Bankston, for (among other things) her strange intimate tendencies, orality, and her fondness for dancing apes. And the close race for "Gunner Case-Study" award was won by the romantic Kelly Turk who persisted in, as Dr. Beal so eloquently put it, "coming back for more." The students then got a chance to celebrate their votes at the Cadaver Ball, held at Central Station on March 2nd. A-Train played the music for the all-night revelry (for a change). Dr. Clawson was deservedly awarded "Best Teacher" in the anatomy department, while Dr. Beal received the suggestive "Sexiest Professor" award, due, no doubt, to his uninhibited antic in lecture. Student awards were presented by the glib Mark Posner and included: Phantom award: Aptly attributed to Henry Jones, who was noted by his absence at the dance as in class. Jock and Jockette: Ray Gereany and Robin Kilpatrick. Closet Gunner: Fred Petty. True Gunner: Neil Porter. Rectum of the Year: richly deserved by Ron Angus. It was a close contest with runner-up Tom Gates, who made a very strong attempt. Better luck next year. Best Buns: Darryl Sandifer (ooh-la-la!) and Lisa Jones. Siamese Twins: JB McGee and Melanie Heles. Best Lab Tables: Jill Bordelon, Ray Gereany, David Sanusi, Robert Wells and Terry Winkler. "Itty-Bitty" and "Teeny-weeny" were commemorated with miniature underwear, and (drama roll please) Cadaver King and Queen: Lawrence Mosely and Nancy Clearkin.

MUSIC IN OUR LIVES

As part of The SYNAPSE's cultural outreach program, we offer the following reflections:

I made it through anatomy*
Somehow I made it through-ooh-hoo
Didn't know how dumb I was until I met you Forget A's, forget B's
I'll be glad just to get a D
But it wasn't all bad
Even though I'd been had
'Cause you made me feel ambitious and greedy--

Like a surgeon, hey!
Cutting for the very first time
Like a surgeon
All those big bucks are gonna be mine
Gonna be a gunner for four years
Then I'll have Joe Penny in tears
When he comes to me
Agonizing pains in his knee
Then I'll enact his worst fears...

I'll be a surgeon, hey! Cutting for a very long time
Like a surgeon, my life will be so divine...

(*To be sung to the tune of "Like a Virgin" by that intellectual giantess, Madonna)

S.A.M.A.

The Medical Student Section of the AMA serves a vital role in our education as physicians for the 21st century, for it is the student medical society which functions as a source of information regarding current issues which will affect the future practice of medicine. The Medical Student Section fulfills this role by participating and offering speakers and seminars to supplement the student's education, as well as by providing an opportunity for the "meeting of minds" of students in both the clinical and preclinical years. 1984-85 officers were as follows: President: Keith Mayfield, Vice-President: Richard Broussard, Secretary-Treasurer: Jimmy Morris, Delegate to AMA Conventions: Kurt Belgard.

B.S.U.

The logo of the Baptist Student Union shows arrows which point in toward the center and out from the center. This symbolism expresses the overall purpose of BSU as a ministry which relates both to the inner growth of a person and the growth which comes through reaching out to others. Based on a holistic understanding of people, BSU seeks to facilitate this growth through the students' participation in a variety of events.

Among the regularly schedule events, our weekly noon luncheons facilitate the development of personal relationships among students. The relaxed atmosphere provides a welcomed break from the stress of classwork, while program leaders provide refreshing and stimulating topics for the medical student's reflection and consideration. On a lighter side, BSU also sponsors numerous social events throughout the year. Hayrides, cookouts, seasonal parties, midnight bowling, and a yearly snow skiing trip highlight the social events. On a more serious side, BSU also endeavors to facilitate the student's spiritual growth through the weekly luncheons as well as our special conference on medical ethics. Held once a month, this event helps the student integrate theology, medicine, and ethics as they seek to present a meaningful Christian witness to their patients and colleagues.

Family Practice Club

Family Practice — as an attitude, career, and specialty — was the theme of the LSU Family Practice Club in 1984-85. Under new leadership, the club set out to promote attitudes which would build appreciation for “the spirit of Family Practice.” A number of luncheons were held where speakers gave informed talks on medical ethics, financial aspects of running a community practice, and future potential for family practice as a specialty.

An open file was set up in Room 1-302 which included general information on Family Practice residency programs throughout the nation. In an effort to give students every advantage in residency selection, the club hosted a wine and cheese social for “residency recruitment.” Response was tremendous with 10 programs from 5 states. Students found it both enjoyable and enlightening to speak on a one-to-one basis with residents and faculty from these programs.

Thanks go out to this year's officers Bill Kergosien, MS III, president; Mark Olivier, MS III, Vice President; Dave Fonatine, MSII, Secretary; and Norman Williams, MSI, Activity Chairman, for a good year.

Wives' Club

The 84-85 year was better than ever before! The Wives' Club conducts a business meeting each month to enable us to plan fund raising projects to benefit the Shreveport-Bossier community. The proceeds are donated to a designated charity each year. We are also currently active in the Child Safety Passenger Act, in conjunction with the Faculty Wives' Club.

While contributing to the community is our main concern, the club serves another very important purpose. We offer a variety of activities throughout the year to promote friendship for all medical student wives. The activities this year have included:

- Welcoming Party
- Fiesta Party
- Bake Sales
- Parent's Day
- Panel Discussions
- Rape Crisis Center
- Christmas Party
- Style Show
- Faculty Wives Tea
- Senior Luncheon

C.M.S.

The Christian Medical Society is relatively new on our campus. The chapter was chartered in 1984 with about 15 members and has seen much subsequent growth. The mission of the CMS is to help students and medical professionals to minister unto the whole person in the model of Jesus Christ. The CMS is a catalyst to enhance discussion and understanding of some of man's deeper needs; emotional, and spiritual healing, as well as physical. We meet to discuss issues of medical care, pray for each other, study God's Word, or just have fun. Several speakers have joined us to deepen our appreciation of relationships with our patients, each other, and our God.

"Non ministranti sed ministrare." - Not to be ministered unto but to minister.
Mark 10:45

Pulse

"Okay, we NEED some pictures for Cadaver Ball . . . who took their cameras?"

"Copy, I gotta have copy for this page. Can you write 150 words about Spring Break?"

"Who types?"

These were the sounds wafting through the fourth floor halls on many a long, late night, as a few devoted folks leafed through stacks of cypsheets and photographs to assemble the memories you now hold. Ours was a formidable and sometimes difficult task: to summarize, focus, and define a year in the lives of the several hundred people who are a part of this medical school. What you now hold is our ambitious but respectful gathering of the joys, frustrations, and lessons of the 1984-85 school year. We thank the friends and contributors who make this remembering possible, and we hope that the memories these pages offer you will make you proud to be a part of LSUMC.

To Our Contributors and Advertisers We Express Our Sincerest Gratitude.
Thank You for Your Loyal Support.

Exposed?

Three reasons why most Louisiana physicians select Louisiana Medical Mutual Insurance Company (LAMMICO) to be their professional liability insurer.

One.

All of LAMMICO's functions are controlled by physicians, which makes the Company especially responsive to the particular needs of its policyholders.

Two.

LAMMICO is wholly owned by its physician policyholders, so that any investment income and cost savings which accrue are used to reduce premiums.

Three.

LAMMICO's financial profile is a sound one due to the Company's steadfast commitment to prudent business management.
